Affinity Gallery bids farewell to Manager and Curator, Moni Aisida

Dear Friends & Members of Affinity Gallery,

Affinity Gallery is bidding farewell to Manager & Curator Moni Aisida. It's a bittersweet moment for us; we're very sad to see her go after two years of dedicated service, but we're excited to cheer her on as she looks to conquer new challenges.

Moni has led the gallery through two years of collaboration, exhibitions and international fairs prioritising building relationships with artists and being in-conversation as the work develops. The nurturing and collaborative energy she brings led to impactful and memorable exhibitions.

In addition to her curatorial role, Moni has been an exceptional leader and helmed the gallery through an important time when we had to execute the gallery's vision, mission and community building. Moni's warmth radiated through the gallery, and the literal cosiness she created in our space will be a tender reminder of her care and tenure here at Affinity.

Moni has the following message to share with all of you:

"My experience at Affinity has been one I will always cherish. I am thankful for the opportunities to expand my knowledge and build deeper connections within the art community with the help of the most amazing team whom I will miss. I remain assured that they will continue the wonderful work they have started as I look ahead to conquer new challenges."

Affinity Gallery is restructuring the role of Manager/Curator. Throughout this time the gallery will remain open and our operations will continue as normal, We'll be sharing announcements soon.

On behalf of the Board and Affinity, we want to thank Moni for her professionalism, dedication and care to the gallery. She will be very missed, and we wish her the very best in her future endeavors.
